Meg Cranston Wins 2013 Artadia NADA Prize

05.14.13

Meg Cranston has been awarded the 2013 Artadia NADA New York prize for her installation at the second New York edition of the fair. Titled Emerald City, 2013, the work included a painting of Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge (Kate Middleton), and was installed in the booth of galleries Fitzroy and Newman Popiashvili, which was painted the precise color of the dress worn by Middleton in the portrait. The four thousand dollar prize was last bestowed on Margaret Lee for her work at NADA Miami Beach this past December. Said juror Lia Gangitano of Lower East Side nonprofit Participant Inc.: “The booth made a strong statement and we’re thrilled that Meg is the recipient of Artadia and NADA’s generous support.”
